HEALTH AND SAFETY GUIDELINES
2022 CANARY ISLAND VOYAGES

PRIOR TO TRAVEL

Ensure that you understand requirements for traveling from your home country to the destinations you plan to visit (including air travel policies).

Please complete the following prior to boarding:

- Pre-travel COVID-19 testing may be required by Portugal and is outlined here. Seabourn does not require testing for travel to/from/within Portugal above and beyond any governmental requirements, but we strongly encourage all guests take a viral COVID-19 test (PCR or antigen) prior to leaving home to avoid travel disruptions associated with a possible positive test result on the day of embarkation.

- Proof of full vaccination, including booster if eligible

- Passenger Locator Forms (PLF): Guests will need to complete both PLF forms and get QR codes for both embarkation and disembarkation
    - Entering Portugal via Air (pre-cruise): Turismo de Portugal (https://portugalcleanandsafe.pt/en/passenger-locator-card)

Guests will be administered a complimentary rapid antigen test at the cruise terminal during the check-in process.

ONBOARD

All guests are required to wear masks always covering their nose and mouth when indoors and outdoors when physical distancing cannot be maintained, as well as during embarkation, disembarkation and when on transportation. Exceptions are made while guests are eating or drinking or when in their own suite.

SHORE EXCURSIONS

The ability for guests to go ashore in ports of call is controlled by the governments of the ports we visit based on their individual COVID-19 protocols and requirements, which are quickly evolving and being updated. All ports allow Seabourn shore excursions. Some ports may also allow tours sold by port-authorized third-party operators or independent tours and exploration. Please be aware that as destination conditions change, you may be required to take a Seabourn shore excursion to go ashore.

POST-CRUISE DEPARTURE TEST

If a negative COVID-19 test is required for re-entry into your home country, Seabourn will cover the costs of a COVID-19 test administered onboard the ship within the timeframe required prior to travel and prior to the end of the voyage. Guests will receive a copy of the test result. Guests are encouraged to review their home country's health authority and travel websites to understand the latest guidance on required testing and timing for return travel. Guests who book a post-cruise stay before traveling home should ensure they meet all testing requirements. If the test provided on board does not meet the requirements for onward travel, additional testing is the responsibility of the guest at their expense.

You can contact your nearest health center, pharmacy, state health department, or transiting airport to learn more about their availability for COVID-19 testing.
